Changes in Saab's Group Management

Saab's Chief Marketing Officer and Managing Director Saab UK, Dean Rosenfield, leaving Saab.

Dean Rosenfield will leave the role as Chief Marketing Officer and Managing Director Saab UK. On departure he will also leave his role in Saab's Group Management.

The process to find a replacement has been initiated. Dean will remain in his position until 29 February 2024 in order to ensure continued momentum and a structured handover.

"I have had a fantastic time over the last 22 years at Saab and am proud to have been part of an incredible journey. For personal reasons I am now choosing to leave Saab and move back to Australia to spend more time with my family," says Dean Rosenfield.

Dean Rosenfield joined Saab in 2001 and was earlier Managing Director for Saab in Australia, Head of Market Area Asia Pacific. Prior to joining Saab he served in the Australian Army.

"Dean has made a strong contribution to Saab's development over several years, first building our business in Australia and most recently strengthening our business and sales in the United Kingdom as well as on the global market. I have personally appreciated his dedication and strong leadership," says Micael Johansson, President and CEO of Saab.

Saab is a leading defence and security company with an enduring mission, to help nations keep their people and society safe. Empowered by its 20,000 talented people, Saab constantly pushes the boundaries of technology to create a safer, more sustainable and more equitable world.
