Saab receives order for combat boats from Sweden

Saab has received an order from the Swedish Defence Materiel Administration (FMV) for ten combat boats. The order value is approximately SEK 400 million. The contract period begins in 2024 and deliveries will be made continuously over the coming years.

The boats are based on the CB90 Next Generation design and are manufactured by Saab's shipyard in Docksta.

"Combat boats are advanced platforms that can be used for many different types of missions. We are proud that Saab's naval capabilities continue to contribute to Sweden's defence," says Mats Wicksell, head of Saab's business area Kockums.

Saab is a leading defence and security company with an enduring mission, to help nations keep their people and society safe. Empowered by its 22,000 talented people, Saab constantly pushes the boundaries of technology to create a safer and more sustainable world. Saab designs, manufactures and maintains advanced systems in aeronautics, weapons, command and control, sensors and underwater systems. Saab is headquartered in Sweden. It has major operations all over the world and is part of the domestic defence capability of several nations.
